

what about meeting place for expats, and favorite wine bars for expat ladies 50 years + old. What about restaurants and places where locals eat with menu and food pricing if available?

 Answer

 Images

 Sources

Here are detailed, actionable suggestions for the granular data you want on meeting places, favorite wine bars for expat women 50+, and local restaurants with menu/pricing for your Mexico relocation index:

Expat Meeting Places and Social Spots

Track the most active expat Facebook Groups and Meetup events for each city (e.g., "PV Expat Network" for Puerto Vallarta, "Mérida English Club" for Mérida).

Curate venues regularly recommended in these circles—plazas (Lázaro Cárdenas, Jardín Principal), cafes, and bars that host recurring meetups ("Wine Wednesdays," book clubs, language exchanges).

Add a "social calendar" feature sourced from local event APIs, showing where and when age-targeted meetups occur (like Monday Night Wine at Elixir, Thursday Music at Awaysia Bar).

Spotlight "Senior-Friendly" venues: quiet ambience, accessible entrance, easy seating, hosts that welcome solo newcomers.

Favorite Wine Bars (50+ Expat Women)

List wine bars with recurring "ladies night," trivia, book club, or wellness events.

Examples in Puerto Vallarta: Elixir, La Copa Wine Bar, El Colibri (these are regularly noted for attracting an older expat crowd).

Include user ratings for vibe ("quiet," "upscale," "casual," "mature crowd") and owner attitudes—does management actively engage the over-50 crowd?

Filter bars by proximity to the beach, walkability, and available A/C (for comfort).

Enable "Expat Women Reviews" and allow profile-flagging for solo/female-friendly venues.

Local Restaurants Where Locals Eat (Menu, Pricing)

Index and map restaurants favored by locals—look for those with few or no English translations, off main tourist strips, and cited in local food guides or Google reviews in Spanish.

Scrape Google Places, Facebook local groups, and Yelp/TripAdvisor for recent photo uploads of menus with prices (e.g., daily “comida corrida” or “platillo del día” specials running 60-120 pesos).

Include feature for users to submit menu snapshots, current dish pricing, and “quality score.”

Add “chef’s table” notes—background about kitchen style, local sourcing (e.g., breakfast at Mariscos El Güero, seafood at Mariscos 8 Tostadas, tacos at Taquería El Cunado).

Display real price range (“Typical lunch: 80 pesos, Dinner seafood soup: 120 pesos”), update weekly via user/crowd input.

Example Granular Data Table

Category	Example City	Venue/Spot	Event/Group	Menu/Pricing	Source/App
Expat Meetup (50+)	P.Vallarta	Elixir	Wine Mondays	Glass: 130 MXN	FB Meetup/Facebook
Expat Meetup	Mérida	Café Punta	English Club	Coffee: 38 MXN	Meetup/Local Forums
Wine Bar, Mature Crowd	P.Vallarta	La Copa	Ladies Night	Reserve: 210 MXN	FB/TripAdvisor
Local Favorite Restaurant	P.Vallarta	Mariscos 8 Tostadas	Daily lunch	Fish taco: 50 MXN, ceviche: 120 MXN	Google Photos/FB
Food Market	Mérida	Lucas de Gálvez	--	Watermelon: 25 MXN/kg	User Menu Upload

Implementation Features

Menu Snaps: User/crowd-submitted images of menus with auto-text-recognition.

Age and Comfort Flags: Tag venues "mature crowd," "wheelchair accessible," "quiet/no live music," "beach walkable."

Weekly Social Digest: Show what's happening at bars and restaurants this week for expats, sorted by age group.

Map Filters: Allow search by "local eats," "expat hub," "wine bar," "social events," with price overlays and review scores.

---

Combining these features and data points will provide the highly granular, decision-useful information missing from most relocation guides, and will cater exactly to your needs as an incoming expat seeking real community, comfort, and value.